Today's Liturgy

By Virginia Smith

Over the course of the next 30+ weeks of Ordinary Time, we will journey through Luke's version of Jesus' public life. Ordinary in this sense simply means the ordinal or numbered Sundays, and this season is every bit as important as any other in the liturgical year as it contains Jesus' teachings and interactions with those he encountered in his ministry.

Luke begins by acknowledging that he is not the only one to record Jesus' words and deeds. He probably wrote about 85 CE. As in Acts, his other work, Luke dedicates his Gospel to one Theophilus. Whether or not this was an historical personage scholars have yet to determine.

Then today's reading moves past the infancy narratives to Chapter 4 which might well be titled Jesus' inaugural address. In his hometown synagogue, Jesus is asked to read the weekly passage from the prophets. You might say he was the first lector. Any adult male in the congregation might be tapped for that honor and was then expected to comment on the reading; in other words, to give the homily. The passage from Isaiah was familiar to all who heard him. His remarks were short, but many did not find them sweet as we will learn next week.

However, as in modern inaugural addresses, Jesus here lays out his platform, telling his friends and neighbors what they can expect from him in the weeks, months, and years to come. He begins his public life with a very public declaration of purpose

Today's Readings / Lecturas de hoy

Nehemiah 8:2-4a, 5-6, 8-10
Psalm 19:8, 9, 10, 15

Your words, Lord, are Spirit and life.

1 Corinthians 12:12-30
Luke 1:1-4; 4:14-21

Liturgia de hoy

Por Virginia Smith

En el transcurso de las próximas 30 o más semanas del Tiempo Ordinario, recorreremos la versión de Lucas de la vida pública de Jesús. Ordinario en este sentido simplemente significa los domingos ordinales o numerados, y esta temporada es tan importante como cualquier otra en el año litúrgico, ya que contiene las enseñanzas e interacciones de Jesús con las personas que encontró en su ministerio.

Lucas comienza reconociendo que él no es el único que registra las palabras y los hechos de Jesús. Probablemente escribió sobre el 85 EC. Como en Hechos, su otro trabajo, Lucas dedica su Evangelio a un Teófilo. Si este fue o no un personaje histórico, los eruditos aún tienen que determinar.

Luego, la lectura de hoy pasa de las narraciones de la infancia al Capítulo 4, que bien podría titularse como el discurso inaugural de Jesús. En su sinagoga local, se le pide a Jesús que lea el pasaje semanal de los profetas. Se podría decir que fue el primer lector. Cualquier hombre adulto en la congregación puede ser elegido para ese honor y luego se espera que comente sobre la lectura; En otras palabras, dar la homilía. El pasaje de Isaías fue familiar para todos los que lo escucharon. Sus comentarios fueron breves, pero muchos no los encontraron dulces como lo aprenderemos la próxima semana.

Sin embargo, como en los discursos inaugurales modernos, Jesús aquí presenta su plataforma, contando a sus amigos y vecinos lo que pueden esperar de él en las semanas, meses y años venideros. Comienza su vida pública con una declaración de propósitos muy pública.

Fighting Poverty

Urban Housing and Economic Community Development Corporation, located in our neighborhood, is offering construction training, mentoring, and job placement. They build affordable housing. Hire trainees who are prior offenders, veterans, welfare recipients, and others with barriers to employment. After graduation, trainees are given placement assistance, a mentor, and a path to stable income. The affordable housing is sold to low to moderate income families. We are seeking mentors. No experience necessary, brief training provided. Contact David Greenidge (503) 477-7387 davidg@nuhecdc.org

RACISM PART 3: Discrimination on the basis of race and ethnicity takes many forms. Thankfully, the United States has eliminated the institutional, legalized racial discrimination of years past: slavery, Jim Crow laws, 'separate but equal' schools, and prohibitions on voting or owning land, to name just a few examples, are gone. These victories were hard fought, and deserve to be remembered and celebrated. These advances, while substantial, are still incomplete. Unfortunately, America remains a deeply divided place in many ways. Too many Americans of all racial and ethnic backgrounds, live in technically unsegregated yet homogenous communities due to persistent challenges on many levels—education, employment, housing, just to name a few. As a result, dialogue and encounter with others with diverse backgrounds, experiences, and opinions, can be limited.

Build Community at the St. Andrew Hash on Feb. 9th

We would love for you to join us for the 6th annual St. Andrew Hash, held on SATURDAY February 9th starting at 1:30 sharp! A Hash is an outdoor walking/running event where all participants WORK TOGETHER to figure out the path forward. There are activities along the way, a warm stop midway with bathrooms, snacks, adult beverages and root beer, and a party at the end to connect with old and new friends. All participants should be able to walk at least three miles, there will be options for runners and walkers and children are welcome with supervision.

This is an auction fundraiser, all proceeds go to the Community Center. $30 for adults and $10 for kids. Please contact Carmi Lyon (Lyon.Carmi@gmail.com or (503)964-3900) to get on the list for further details about the 2019 St Andrew Hash! After Mass today, see Ingrid Parmeter, Angela Kremer, Molly Hiro, Pamela Vanderwolf, Debbie Driscoll, or Carmi Lyon with questions.

Zumba Tuesdays 6:30 to 7:30 PM in the Community Center Gym. All are Welcome.

A QUICK LESSON IN AFRICAN AMERICAN CATHOLIC HISTORY: Did you know that the first black people in what is now the United States were Catholics? In the first European-style city established here, St. Augustine, Florida, a large percentage of Spanish-speaking black Catholic families lived. Some of these were free blacks, and some were slaves. In 1781, El Pueblo de La Reina de los Angeles (today just "Los Angeles") was founded with only 11 families. All were Catholic, over half were black, and there were only 2 whites in the entire group! In 1789, the famous Catholic bishop John Carroll wrote, "Of 15,000 Catholics in Maryland, 3,000 are black Catholic slaves." The original founder of the city of Chicago (established in 1837) was a black Catholic French-speaking trader and trapper named John Baptiste duSable.

Three of the Healy brothers, born in Georgia, were the first black Catholic priests in the United States. James Healy, a member of the Society of St. Sulpice, was ordained in 1854 — the year Augustus Tolton was born. His brother Alexander also joined the Society and was ordained in 1858. Their brother Patrick entered the Jesuits and was ordained in France in 1862. James became the second bishop of Portland, Maine, in 1875 — the first black bishop in the United States. Patrick was the first black university president when he became the head of Georgetown College in 1874. Sadly, he always felt unable to talk about his African ancestry in his community. After the Civil War, Patrick Healy was instrumental in developing the college into Georgetown University.

Henriette DeLille (died 1862), a descendant of slaves, is the first native-born African American whose cause for canonization has been opened by the Roman Catholic Church. In 1836, she and another woman tried to form an integrated congregation of vowed women religious, but the segregation laws of the state of Louisiana made it nearly impossible. In 1842, they began by forming a pious union. They took vows in 1852 and were recognized as a religious congregation by Rome in 1870. It was not until 1872 that they were allowed to wear a religious habit, however, due to racist attitudes toward the Sisters of the Holy Family. Today 250 Sisters of the Holy Family minister in four states as well as in Belize, Central America. We pray that the pope will soon name Mother Henriette DeLille as venerable, the first step toward being recognized as a saint:

Provide Meals for the Houseless

A new shelter opened in the county building on MLK & Killingsworth. It houses up to 80 individuals and their pets! It's a low barrier shelter, which is unusual and very necessary. The facility has no kitchen, so groups of volunteers are providing meals. We can use our kitchen to prepare the food or home kitchens are fine too. Would your small faith group, your family, or a group of friends like to cook for the Walnut Park Shelter? Contact Lisa Hatten if you would like to help with cooking and/or delivering email her at lhatten@standrewchurch.com.

Liturgy Insights

PRESENTATION OF THE LORD: This feast of Our Lord on February second used to be the feast of the Purification of Mary. It is also called “Candlemas Day,” because part of the ritual for this day is the blessing of candles. People can be invited to bring candles from their homes to be blessed. Some parishes hand out blessed candles at the end of the day’s liturgies. Blessed candles from today’s feast are used for the blessing of throats on the next day, the feast of St. Blaise. The feast has traditionally involved processions and candles. The feast recalls the Jewish rite of an infant’s presentation forty days after birth. Blessing candles has always been a traditional way of remembering Jesus—Light of the World— as well as the call to ourselves to be light for one another. Traditionally, all the candles used for the coming year are blessed as we remember the story of Jesus being presented by his parents at the Temple of Jerusalem. In words used as a canticle of praise in the evening prayer of the church, the prophet Simeon foretold about the Child: “A light of revelation to the Gentile world, and the glory of his people, Israel.” Once again, the church celebrates a basic gift, the gift of light, a gift that we take for granted,
